Solution: A simple mobile app showing real-time medicine availability in nearby stores, verified AI health Q&A in local languages, and instant teleconsultation with nearby doctors — even works offline. Target Users: Small-town and rural users, local pharmacies, and doctors. Revenue Model: Pharmacy subscriptions, ads from clinics/labs, commissions on delivery/bookings, and B2B tie-ups with health agencies. Impact: Improves medicine access, supports local pharmacies, promotes digital health inclusion, and empowers communities with trusted medical information. Tech Stack:

7	Shambhavi Mishra (General)	99050634 08	3	Siddhi Choudhary (General) Muskan Kumari (Schedule Tribe)	Title: Amriksha (Emphasizing natural healing rooted in Vedic traditions). Concept: Amriksha aims to empower tribal women in Jharkhand, India, by cultivating the Fairywand (False Unicorn) plant, which has natural pain-relieving properties for menstrual cramps. The project will: 1. Cultivate Fairywand: Utilize Jharkhand's suitable climate and soil conditions to grow the Fairywand plant, creating employment opportunities for tribal women. 2. Process into Medicinal Products: Develop a sustainable process to extract the plant's roots and create natural, side-effect-free menstrual pain relief products. 3. EcoPad Production: Use local plant fibers (banana, bamboo, jute, etc.) to create biodegradable sanitary pads, promoting eco-friendly menstrual hygiene. 4. Digital Platform: Establish a data-backed platform to track, test, and sell verified eco-safe menstrual products, including the Fairywand-based pain relief products and biodegradable pads. 5. Women's Empowerment: Provide skill development, employment, and financial independence to tribal women, promoting their health, well-being, and social empowerment. Impact: 1. Improved Menstrual Health: Provide natural, effective, and affordable menstrual pain relief products and eco-friendly sanitary pads to women in need. 2. Women's Empowerment: Create employment opportunities, promote financial independence, and enhance social status for tribal women. 3. Sustainable Agriculture: Encourage eco-friendly farming practices, reduce carbon footprint, and promote biodiversity. 4. Digital Inclusion: Utilize technology to track, test, and sell products, ensuring transparency, quality, and reach.
